“ Delma and I taught at two public schools in Washington, DC. They were Butler Street Elementary School and Wilkinson Elementary School which were located in southeast. During that time, I found her to be mild mannered and respectful. She will be missed by all who were closely associated with her. I extend to you my deepest sympathy. God has picked a flower from the Earthly Plane and transplanted it in the Heavenly Plane. May God keep you steadfast during you hour of tribulation.
