“ I'll remember my sister, Gloria, fussing with me over some peppermint sticks we'd gotten for Christmas (I had purposely broken hers just because), I'll remember my sister frightening me with the tale that my right arm would fall off if I ate the eye in black-eye peas, I'll remember being a bit bristled after her commenting that I'd gained weight since the last time she saw me, I'll remember my sister reminding me not to forget to bring her 3 baked sweet potatoes on my visits with her (most times I only bought her 2, wished I had bought the 3), I'll remember my sister liking the socks I bought her and telling me to get another pair just like them.

I'd like to think that memories are stored in our hearts, waiting for the opportune time to re-surface and give us comfort and make us happy again. Memories never fade, never get old.

Love you Gloria, Connie

“ To the family of Gloria B. Johnson, we are so sorry for the loss of Gloria. She was a sweet soul even in her sickness. I'll remember her smile and her hearty laughter. We were friends since high school and lived next door for many years. Although we became separated during her illness, Gloria always remembered my birthday or Christmas with a card. She even included a little something in the cards. To this day, I still have them and will keep them as a memory of my friend Gloria. Rest in peace sweet Gloria. God bless you Connie and family.
