“ I only knew Jeffrey Newbold as a police officer. He was the real police. As with all police he faced real life dangers every day. Most people adapt and practice avoidance to cope with the constant pressure of policing. Not Newbold...He faced those challenges every day, head on. He saw right and wrong and when he saw wrong he did his best to make it right no matter the consequences to himself. He fought his hardest to give a voice to those that could not. I worked many years in the poorest neighborhoods in DC and many, many citizens lived a better life because of his work. He gave us hope that someone important cared. Hope for a better future. He firmly believed that giving people hope through his efforts was the key to a better future. He was loved and will be missed by all those he touched. I will miss him.

“ To my best friend forever we shared many memories, and created a bond that will always be remembered and reflected through the beauty of our three children. Our union will always remain in my heart. Until then. Love you always Tracy.
