“ To Margie and family,

Joy is what I feel when I think of your beloved aunt Margaret. Your aunt and my mother were both in the same nursing home in Leonardtown, MD. In fact, because of you we were able to find St. Mary's Nursing Home. Thank you.

I request that visitors of my mom write notes to her in a journal. A few years ago cousin Janie and I were visiting my mom and decided to go to the quiet room (more private area). Well, the Williams family were also in the quiet room. My mom started reading notes in her journal. She read what I had written, "April and me visited you last month." My mom said in a very loud voice, "you should have written April and I." All of a sudden, Ms. Margaret started laughing, then everyone in the room started laughing. Her grandson said with so much love and joy, "grandma is laughing." You had to have been there to see all the smiles and hear the laughter because of Ms. Margaret's response

Remember death is not the period, but a comma in life. Enjoy your new eternal home Ms. Williams and thank you for Margie and the lineage that follows because of your life.

I will miss not seeing Ms. Williams walk the hallways of the nursing home, but I will feel her quiet spirit.

Thank you God for creating such a loving person, Ms. Margaret Williams. Welcome her with a tsunami of love into your arms and the realm of spiritual bliss.

Love,

“ I will always cherish fond memories of Margaret, especially the many peaceful, relaxing times spent at the open air Farm Market; learning to pick the youngest of leaf collard greens and later learning how to prepare them for freezer storage. Your God given gift of knowledge has always been an inspiration and will always remained with me. Rest in peace sister-in law. Love, Laura.

“ As a baby after recovering from a surgery which saved my life, my grandmother Margaret was their by side taking care of me once I arrived home from the hospital. She was so loving, teaching, and willing to help anyone in the family whom needed help. I remember a unique, fun, and teaching grandmother who wanted nothing but the best for her grandkids and her family. I will not forget her cooking which would blow us out of the water every Christmas and thanksgiving. I also appreciate her taking on the responsibility of helping raise people in our family when their parents were unable to. I will never forget the memories I have experienced with her, and her legacy will live on.

Love her Grandson William!

“ Aunt Margaret had a special gift. She was the mother, grandmother, great grandmother and auntie to a lot of babies in our family. Even though, she never had any biological children, she experienced labor pains many times with the babies that would eventually become her own in many ways. She stepped up to the plate - without reservation or hesitation and filled a parenting void over and over again. I always admired her for taking on this huge responsibility. One of my fondest memories of Aunt Margaret occurred on a particular day in which she provided day care for my son (Duane) - who was a toddler at the time. He learned how to tie his shoes. I tied his shoes that morning at 8:00am and when I picked him up at 5:00pm, he tied his shoes all by himself. Aunt Margaret taught him. Priceless moment. RIP
