“ I am so sorry. I am so very late in learning the news of Molley's death. We met when I got a job in the Pentagon. I knew nothing and no one. Molley knew a lot about the inside of that building. Especially great was her close contact with the gardners. We would get the tulip bulbs being discarded. We talked a lot about our gardens. One day she invited me over to dig up her overgrown Lillies. To this day they grow in my backyard - even during this drought. They are as tough as she was. Wonderful woman. I wish her peace. Barbara
