“ Dear aunt Vonda, Angie, "JR," Tamika, Andrea, and family,

Please accept our profound expressions of love during the transition of our beloved uncle, a gentleman, and a giant in every sense of the word. This man of valor, exhibiting a manner of meekness, never knew a stranger. His steadfast love for his family and others was evident in his smile, his stance, and his persona.

Aunt Vonda chose a rare and precious jewel for her husband, and help mate.

The true measure of a man is not measured in terms of how he navigates through life while success is at his feet, but how he responds to adversity. Trials and tribulations are inevitable; however, uncle Brown persevered the vicissitudes of life head-on. His faith in God, and his infectious love for his beloved family never waiver. No man could ever fill his shoes. He most definitely broke the mold.

And while we pause at this moment to say, see you later, our heart yearns to see his loving smile; his gentle touch and wink of his eye to let us know that he is okay, and is safely resting in the bosom of Jesus Christ, the author, and finisher of his faith.

Sleep well, our gentle giant. You've fought a good fight; you won the race, you finished the course. Now there is stored up for you a crown of righteousness which the righteous judge will give to you in His appearing.

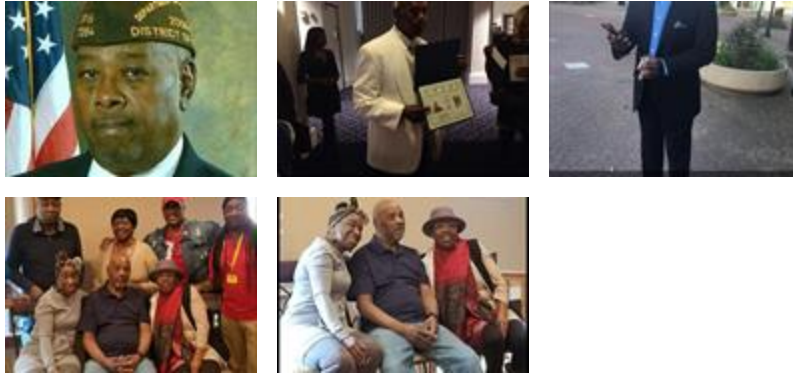

May your earthly work continues to speak for you in perpetuity.

We love you, but God loves you best!

Love always,

Your nephews, Tony, Colon, III; nieces, Nita, Trina, Joy, and sister-in-love, Melissa Brinkley & family~
